

Community Acupuncture

At CHAC our goal is to show as many people as possible the healing potential of acupuncture. We treat large numbers of people together in our community treatment rooms. At our open house in August 2011, for example, we treated 100 people in one day. Efficiency of treatment means we can be very competitively priced: $15—$35 per treatment.

Because most insurance plans do not cover acupuncture, the going rate for a conventional, private-room treatment at $80 and up is out of reach for many people who must pay out of pocket. Plus, treatments must be repeated to be effective, compounding this problem. We are not a charity, we just want to serve people of average means who have to be careful with their money!

Community style acupuncture has several other advantages. We limit advice and questioning about lifestyle to make your visits less time consuming and more treatment focused. Also, in the private room setting, it is common for the acupuncturist to come in to remove your needles after 20 or 30 minutes to get the room ready for the next patient; at CHAC, you can relax in one of our recliners as long as you like. You are not left alone in a room by yourself full of needles. Someone is always around to make sure you are comfortable. And you may come with a friend or family member and be treated together.

At CHAC, feeling good is convenient and affordable!
